IMPROVEMENTS AT REFORM SCHOOL

Since Superintendent E. G. Cowans assumed charge of the State Industrial school, work on the improvements at the institution has been taken up with a rush. The services of John S. Higham as superintendent of construction has been secured by the board of trustees and an extra force of workmen detailed on the girls' new cottage. When the cottage is completed, which probably will be within a few weeks, the female inmates of the school will be moved from the old building across the street from the main building and the vacant house occupied by the younger boys at the institution. Work has already been started on the old cottage now occupied by the girls, which is being divided into dormitories where the younger boys will be quartered.

Hope For Better Results. By the separation of the younger boys from the older ones and removing the girls to the new cottage, which is in an isolated part of the school grounds, the officials of the institution believe better results can be accomplished.

In addition to these improvements, work is being pushed on the central heating plant. In this building will be installed the latest improved heating apparatus, which will be connected with all of the buildings on the grounds. This will mean a big saving in fuel and insure a better regulation of the school, has been sent to Salt during the winter months.

President of Board Here. President Harry S. Joseph of the board of trustees is in Ogden for a few days assisting the new superintendent.

Mr. Joseph said yesterday that Maggie Smith, one of the inmates of the school, has been sent to Salt Lake to appear as a witness against a bartender who is under indictment in the district court for a statutory crime. The girl is said to have misrepresented her age to the juvenile court, where she was given a hearing on a charge of immorality. If this is found to be true, after an investigation which is being made, the girl will not be brought back to the school but will be tried in the district court at Salt Lake for an unmentionable crime.

Heating Water by Gas

So many people want to know how we heat water when using Gas for cooking. We have Instantaneous Water Heaters used in the bathroom, giving three gallons per minute at a cost of 1-14c for ten gallons. We can heat enough water for a bath in fifteen minutes, costing 5c, with our Lyon Coil Heaters, which are connected to the kitchen boiler. The heated water is stored in the top of the boiler and the first water drawn will be hot water.

If you are to build a nice modern home and date on modern conveniences, you can have an automatic Rund Heater installed; this heater furnishes hot water to all the faucets in the house, and heats it only when wanted. The efficiency of this heater is as high as any other modern machine for heating water with Gas.

TRY THIS RECIPE.

1-4 cup butter 4 egg yolks
3-4 cup sugar 1 cup flour
1-4 cup milk 1 level teaspoonful Rum
Cream the butter, add gradually the sugar, then the egg yolks, beaten until light-colored, and add alternately with the milk, flour and baking powder, and to the first mixture. Bake in a narrow, deep cake pan. Start with cold oven and bake slowly.
